Why lie?

By Annette Bridges

I wonder if any of us can honestly say we have never told a lie. I certainly can't! Some say that lying is an unavoidable part of human nature, but does this make telling a lie acceptable, excusable and always forgivable? My first lessons about lying and truth-telling came in childhood with the folktale of George Washington and the cherry tree, along with his famous declaration "I cannot tell a lie."

Life's Better Outside comes to AlleyFest

LONGVIEW - For the first time, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is bringing its Life's Better Outside® Experience to this year's AlleyFest in Longview June 5-6. Visitors of all ages will be able to see and try various outdoor activities, including fishing, archery, and rock climbing.

After TPWD made a decision to suspend Texas Parks and Wildlife Expo in Austin in 2009, the state agency essentially took the show on the road, creating the traveling Life's Better Outside® Experience presented at partner festivals like AlleyFest.

Women's hormones

Both men and women have specific health issues related to hormone imbalances. Men generally are less concerned about their health to the point our wives help us take care of ourselves. So now let us explore women's problems so our men can help our wives with their health and be compassionate and understanding.

The ovaries get stimulated from the pituitary gland to produce estrogen, progesterone and a small amount of testosterone.
